

Caption: Moore Philanthropy moderated a conversation at Skoll World Forum titled, “Investing in African and Black-Owned and Led Businesses: Fostering Connections and Multiplying Impact,” offering bold calls to action for investors, policymakers, and organizations alike.

Building the Next Generation of Philanthropic Leaders with Moore Philanthropy

August 10, 2026

Moore Philanthropy (MP) is the latest organization to become a hosting partner for the Bowie State University \(BSU\) Philanthropy Fellowship, selecting Jada Forbes as its 2026-2027 Philanthropy Fellow.

Founded in 2015, MP is a Black-owned, women-led philanthropic advisory firm, intermediary, and public charity that provides philanthropic services to individuals, families, and organizations in the U.S. and globally. MP offers agile, expansive support to changemakers tackling the world’s significant challenges, with a vision rooted in reversing underinvestment in communities of color, enhancing their influence, and fostering generational wealth.

“At Moore Philanthropy, we are deeply committed to advancing justice globally by investing in the next generation of philanthropic leaders,” said Yvonne Moore, Founder and Managing Director at Moore Philanthropy. “More than ever, we need philanthropy to invest deeply and intentionally in the changemakers who need trust and investment most, and that starts with fostering a diverse pipeline of individuals who shape funding decisions. We are proud to partner with BSU to cultivate that future.”

Through their Philanthropic Advisory, Fiscal Sponsorship, and Donor-Advised Funds services, MP has distributed over $45 million in grants to 287+ grassroots organizations and manages $70 million in contributed revenue to changemakers around the world.

“Philanthropy frequently overlooks investing in leaders of color with lived experience,” adds Dr. James Hyman, Founder of the BSU’s Philanthropy Initiative. “We are inspired by MP’s vision of reversing this underinvestment, and have no doubt that Jada will gain valuable insight and experience throughout her fellowship. Our goal at the BSU Philanthropy Initiative is to prepare the next generation of Black philanthropic leaders to become catalysts for change. We are thrilled to partner with MP to carry this vision forward, and through that, move money to communities that philanthropy has too often ignored.”